Beautiful Scotland Awards celebrate Argyll and Bute successes

National awards ceremony recognises Argyll and Bute's environmental efforts

Community groups, local authorities and businesses from all across Scotland, gathered in Dunfermline yesterday (Thursday 7 September) to celebrate the annual Beautiful Scotland Awards, organised by environmental charity, Keep Scotland Beautiful.

The ceremony, hosted by Fife Council, recognised the work undertaken in communities throughout Scotland to help deliver environmental improvements in their local area - including the efforts of two Argyll and Bute groups.

The awards acknowledged the efforts of first time entrant, Blairmore Village Trust, for improving the village for both residents and visitors. The group received a Silver Gilt medal certificate in the Coastal Village category and was also presented with the Keep Scotland Beautiful Award - celebrating its work in bringing the community together for the benefit of the environment and implementing its Community Learning Exchange with East Haven Together in Angus.

Bute in Bloom also picked up a Silver Gilt medal certificate in the Coastal Town category.

The competition, which is run in partnership with the Royal Horticultural Society (RHS), brings communities together to help clean up and beautify the places that matter to them - and recognises the efforts of volunteers across Scotland as they work to enhance their own community.

Beautiful Scotland celebrates and supports the achievements of entire villages, towns, cities, residential communities and Business Improvement Districts from across Scotland in helping to improve the places they care for.

Thirteen category winners, with 11 additional Discretionary Awards and the overall Rosebowl Award, were presented at the ceremony. All entries were assessed against the three core pillars of the Beautiful Scotland campaign - Horticultural Achievement; Environmental Responsibility and Community Participation.

The event, which brought over 250 delegates from across Scotland together in Dunfermline to receive their awards, saw Depute Provost of Fife, Councillor Julie Ford, present 25 accolades - recognising the high number of entrants into the competition.

Carole Noble, Operations Director of Keep Scotland Beautiful, commented:

“Beautiful Scotland provides the opportunity for Scotland to celebrate the outstanding achievements of volunteer groups across the country and recognises the significant contribution they make in helping to improve our local environmental quality.

“Argyll and Bute volunteers have worked tirelessly to ensure that the local spaces and places that they treasure are maintained to excellent standards. I would like to commend them on their efforts.

“In 2017 the campaign in Scotland reaches its 51st year. Keep Scotland Beautiful is delighted to, once again, celebrate and reward the dedication and achievements of the committed volunteers who create places that are good for our health, wealth and happiness.”

Beautiful Scotland is managed by Keep Scotland Beautiful, a member of the RHS Bloom Federation. Entrants are judged by a team of expert volunteer judges on their year-round achievements. Awards are presented to a range of local authorities and communities who have achieved the highest scores in their categories, with Discretionary Awards given to those who demonstrate excellence in their commitment to the campaign. Some of the winners will go on to represent Scotland in RHS Britain in Bloom in 2017.
