Beautiful Scotland Awards celebrate Lauder success

National awards ceremony recognises Lauder's environmental efforts

Community groups, local authorities and businesses from all across Scotland, gathered in Dunfermline yesterday (Thursday 7 September) to celebrate the annual Beautiful Scotland Awards, organised by environmental charity, Keep Scotland Beautiful.

The ceremony, hosted by Fife Council, recognised the work undertaken in communities throughout Scotland to help deliver environmental improvements in their local area - including the efforts of Lauder in Bloom.

The first time entrant was praised for its efforts in bringing colour to Lauder. By working with local businesses and other community groups, Lauder in Bloom volunteers have transformed a number of areas throughout the village. As a result the group won the Large Village category with a Gold medal certificate and also received the New Entrant Trophy.

Chairman of Keep Scotland Beautiful, Dr. Lindsay Montgomery CBE said: "As a resident of Lauderdale I am particularly delighted to see Lauder in Bloom excel in the 2017 Beautiful Scotland campaign. As a first-time entrant, it is a huge achievement for the group to achieve a Gold Medal, to scoop the trophy in the Large Village category, and to receive the discretionary award for the best New Entrant. My congratulations to all the volunteers who have worked so hard to make Lauder cleaner and greener."

The Beautiful Scotland competition, which is run in partnership with the Royal Horticultural Society (RHS), brings communities together to help clean up and beautify the places that matter to them - and recognises the efforts of volunteers across Scotland as they work to enhance their own community.

Thirteen category winners, with 11 additional Discretionary Awards and the overall Rosebowl Award, were presented at the ceremony. All entries were assessed against the three core pillars of the Beautiful Scotland campaign - Horticultural Achievement; Environmental Responsibility and Community Participation.

The event, which brought over 250 delegates from across Scotland together in Dunfermline to receive their awards, saw Depute Provost of Fife, Councillor Julie Ford, present 25 accolades - recognising the high number of entrants into the competition.

Carole Noble, Operations Director of Keep Scotland Beautiful, commented:

“Beautiful Scotland provides the opportunity for Scotland to celebrate the outstanding achievements of volunteer groups across the country and recognises the significant contribution they make in helping to improve our local environmental quality.

“Lauder volunteers have worked tirelessly to ensure that the local spaces and places that they treasure are maintained to excellent standards. I would like to commend them on their efforts.

“In 2017 the campaign in Scotland reaches its 51st year. Keep Scotland Beautiful is delighted to, once again, celebrate and reward the dedication and achievements of the committed volunteers who create places that are good for our health, wealth and happiness.”

Beautiful Scotland is managed by Keep Scotland Beautiful, a member of the RHS Bloom Federation. Entrants are judged by a team of expert volunteer judges on their year-round achievements. Awards are presented to a range of local authorities and communities who have achieved the highest scores in their categories, with Discretionary Awards given to those who demonstrate excellence in their commitment to the campaign. Some of the winners will go on to represent Scotland in RHS Britain in Bloom in 2017.
